Tamar's Journey Began In A Small Kibbutz (Communal Settlement), Where She Would Walk Through The Citrus Orchards, Coming Up With Her First Musical Ideas. At The Age Of 8, She Started Classical Piano Lessons And Began Performing In Concerts.

As A Student, Tamar Enrolled In A Vocal Jazz Performance Program, Where She Discovered Her Freedom And Improvisational Skills. The Fusion Of Classical And Jazz She Grew Up On Contributed To Her Diverse Influences, Including A Mix Of Chopin, Sarah Vaughan, Erykah Badu, And Others. This Variety Fueled Her Passion For Music, Forming The Basis Of Her Innovative Approach And Profound Emotional Expression, Which Have Earned Her Recognition As A Rising Talent In The Music Scene.

As Tamar Explains, "Music Has The Power To Create Connections—Not Only Between People But Also Between Different Parts Of Ourselves. Each Encounter Is A Piece In The Grand Puzzle Of Our Lives, And My Music Is The Way These Pieces Find Their Place And Meaning."

Tamar's Work Continues To Push The Boundaries Of Musical Expression, Establishing Her As An Artist Who Expands The Limits Of Genre Fusion. She Delivers A Distinctive Sound That Captivates Audiences And Leaves A Lasting Impact.
